

S36.1

Preparing trainees for participation in research

Ferdinando Petrazzuoli(1) & Caroline Huas(2)

(1) EGPRN Executive Board & Educational Committee

(2) EGPRN Research Committee Working Group

Corresponding author: Dr Ferdinando Petrazzuoli, Lund Universit , Centre for Primary Health Care Research, Department Clinical Sciences, Malmö, Sweden. E-mail: ferdinando.petrazzuoli@gmail.com

Over the years EGPRN has organized many international research courses for general practice/primary care. Since 1984, there have been courses in England, Denmark, Italy, Spain, Ireland, Portugal, Sweden, Malta, France and Poland. The syllabus of the two different formats, the full five-day course and the short two-day course will be discussed as an opportunity to inspire and develop the future courses for young trainees.

Actions to bridge the divide in European health research and innovation” is one of a recent call in Horizon 2020 (H2020), asking for projects that can help less performing countries to build capacities and exploit opportunities to eventually increase their participation in EU funded collaborative projects. How could GP student’s could be involved or could benefit from such a programme?